

Check out the list of best nba players by height

In the NBA, players come in all shapes and sizes. From towering centers to speedy point guards, the league is filled with a diverse range of players who bring different skills and abilities to the court. One way to categorize these players is by height. In this article, we'll take a look at some of the most notable nba players by height and explore what makes them unique.

Under 6 Feet

While it's rare for players under 6 feet to make it to the NBA, there have been a few notable exceptions. The most famous of these is Muggsy Bogues, who stood at just 5'3". Despite his diminutive stature, Bogues had a successful career in the league, playing for teams such as the Charlotte Hornets and the Washington Bullets. Known for his lightning-fast speed and excellent ball-handling skills, Bogues was a fan favorite and a skilled playmaker.

Another notable nba players by height is Earl Boykins, who stood at 5'5". Like Bogues, Boykins was a skilled ball-handler and playmaker, using his small stature to his advantage by darting around defenders and finding creative ways to get to the basket. Despite his lack of height, Boykins had a long career in the NBA, playing for teams such as the Denver Nuggets, the Milwaukee Bucks, and the Charlotte Bobcats.

6 Feet to 6' 5"

This is perhaps the most common height range for NBA players, as it encompasses a wide range of positions and skill sets. Some notable players in this category include Allen Iverson, Kobe Bryant, and Michael Jordan. All three players were known for their scoring skill and athleticism, using their speed and agility to get past defenders and score at will.

Other players in this nba players by height list include point guards such as Steve Nash and John Stockton, who were known for their excellent passing and playmaking abilities. Meanwhile, shooting guards such as Ray Allen and Dwyane Wade were known for their scoring prowess and ability to knock down shots from long range.

6' 6" to 6' 10"

This height range is often associated with small forwards and power forwards, who use their size and athleticism to dominate on both ends of the court. This list of best nba players by height is incomplete without mentioning LeBron James, who stands at 6'9". James is known for his incredible all-around skills, which allow him to score, rebound, and playmaker at an elite level. James is regarded as one of the greatest basketball players of all time, having won numerous NBA championships and MVP honors.

Kevin Durant is another top player on this list of nba players by height, who stands at 6'10". Durant is known for his incredible scoring skills, with a smooth shooting stroke and the ability to score from anywhere on the court. Durant is regarded as one of the greatest pure scorers in NBA history and has won multiple scoring championships.

7 Feet and Above

Finally, we come to the tallest NBA players, who stand at 7 feet or above. These players are often centers, using their height and size to dominate in the paint and protect the rim on defense. One of the most dominant players in this nba players by height list is Shaquille O'Neal, who stood at 7' 1".

Shaq O'Neal was a tough opponent for everyone because of his size, strength, and ability to overpower opponents and score whenever he wanted. O'Neal is considered as one of the most dominant players in NBA history, having won multiple MVP awards as well as multiple NBA championships.

Resource Url- <https://www.justallstar.com/nba-all-star-game/player-lists/players-by-height/>